Dear Parents/Carers,

With the Bank Holiday weekend and the school closed for polling, this week has been a little unconventional. The children once again took to remote learning but thankfully just for one day this time. Thank you for your amazing engagement with the online lessons shared and ensuring that your child accessed these successfully.

We are all still very dependent on using online platforms in everyday life. The children too have moved more and more into a world of socialising online with their friends. In school we do a considerable amount of work on online safety. Please continue to promote this at home as we are seeing a rise in the number of online safety concerns being reported to us. Please ensure that you are aware of how your child is using mobile phones and tablets. We always advise that children are not left unsupervised when using devices that are connected to video or audio services. If you would like support with talking to your child about online safety, please contact the Pastoral Team or Mr Williams, who is our computing lead in school.

I hope you all have a good weekend
